

Job Description

Senior Project Manager

Ref: J064/WW/C0041/2019

- Light and/or building materials specialist
- Institutional clients
- Project management expertise

Our client is expanding their market for LED lighting and building material solutions in China.

They work with institutional clients and the project manager works closely with them to deliver innovative solutions.

This includes conceptual design, validating it, making the proposal and working with the supply network to deliver the solution. With any large-scale project, requirements will change, so managing change requests is also required. Being familiar with the solutions, you will also be on point to provide technical support services.

This position requires frequent travel to China.

You will be an experienced electrical, electronic or mechanical engineer. You will have track record of delivering lighting and preferably LED solutions or building material solutions for large projects.

You are great at turning client requirements into implementable solutions and create a close working relationship from client, internal partners to external suppliers.

Successful projects means on time delivery, meeting KPIs, satisfied customer and meeting the budget.

If you have these, then step up to a new career.
